Information About the Authors (in Alphabetical Order)

Tomasz Aleksandrowicz, Ph.D., is a professor at the Police Academy in Szczytno and a specialist in security studies. His research focuses on counter-terrorism, changes in the international security environment, and information warfare. He is the author or co-author of more than 130 scholarly publications, Chairman of the Scientific Committee of the journal Police Review (Przegląd Policyjny), and an honorary member of the Security Forum Scientific Society.

Aleksandra Borowicz, Ph.D., is an assistant professor in the Department of International Economics and Economic Development at the Faculty of Economics, University of Gdańsk. Her research interests include international economics, with a particular focus on foreign direct investment and the economics of European integration. She is the author and co-author of numerous academic publications on the economic aspects of European integration and foreign direct investment. She has also participated in a number of European Union co-financed research projects. She is a member of the European Commission's Team Europe Direct network in Poland and serves as President of the Board of the Polish European Community Studies Association (PECSA).

Dejan Bursać, Ph.D., is a Senior Research Fellow at the Institute for Philosophy and Social Theory, University of Belgrade. His research focuses on elections, political parties, and hybrid regimes. He has published more than 60 articles and other scholarly contributions in academic journals and edited volumes, as well as a monograph on electoral system reform in Serbia. He holds a Ph.D. in Political Science from the University of Belgrade.

Tomislav Dagen, Ph.D., is an assistant professor at the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences, Josip Juraj Strossmayer University of Osijek. His research interests include legal history, international law, national security, European politics, domestic politics, and political relations. He has presented his research at numerous international conferences and has published extensively in scholarly journals.

Marta Götz, Ph.D., is a full professor of Economics and a researcher and lecturer at Vistula University in Warsaw, Poland. She is a graduate of the Poznań University of Economics (UEP) and Aalborg University (AAU) in Denmark. She has led and participated in research projects funded by the National Science Centre (NCN), the Polish National Agency for Academic Exchange (NAWA), and the International Visegrad Fund. Her research focuses on foreign direct investment (FDI), industrial clusters, Industry 4.0, and international competitiveness.

Ayşegül Güler, Ph.D., is an assistant professor in the Department of Political Science and International Relations at the Faculty of Economics and Administrative Sciences, Karamanoğlu Mehmetbey University. She graduated from the Department of International Relations at Selçuk University and completed both her master's and doctoral studies at the Institute of Social Sciences of Selçuk University. Her master's thesis was entitled The Relationship between Turkey and the United States after the Cold War: Regional and Global Interactions, while her doctoral dissertation was entitled The Problem of Political Legitimacy of Humanitarian Interventions in International Relations. Her research interests include international politics, Russian studies, and cybersecurity.

Zlatko Hadžidedić, Ph.D., is an associate professor of Political Science and International Relations and the founding director of the Center for Nationalism Studies (Sarajevo). His scholarly work focuses on nationalism, liberalism, identity, and the structural role of nationalism in international relations. He is the author of Nations and Capital: The Missing Link in Global Expansion (Routledge, 2022), and Forced to be Free: The Paradoxes of Liberalism and Nationalism (DWV, 2012), both of which advance an original theoretical approach to the study of nationalism and its relationship to political modernity and global capitalism. He has held academic appointments at the Sarajevo School of Science and Technology, the University of Sarajevo, and the American University in the Emirates (Dubai). In addition to his academic career, he has extensive experience in public service, having served as a political adviser to several ministers in the government of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Goran Ilik, Ph.D., is a full professor at the Faculty of Law, University "St. Kliment Ohridski" – Bitola, North Macedonia. From 2022 to 2025, Professor Ilik served as Vice-Rector for Science at the University

"St. Kliment Ohridski" – Bitola, and in 2025, he was re-elected for a second term in this position.
He is the author of the books: "Europe at the Crossroads: The Treaty of Lisbon as a Basis of European Union International Identity", "EUtopia: The International Political Power of the EU in the Process of Ideologization of the Post-American World", and "International Relations and the European Union: Values before Power". He has also served as editor of several edited volumes, including: "Combatting Misinformation and Global Nation's False Narratives Through Education" (2025), "The Future of Peace – The Role of the Academic Community in the Promotion of Peace" (2025), "Poland's Experience in Combating Disinformation: Inspirations for the Western Balkans" (2023), "Balkan Ambitions and Polish Inspirations: Experiences, Problems and Challenges" (2022), "New Technologies and the Discourses of Human Rights, Politics, and Society" (2021), "Human Rights and Civil Liberties in the Time of Covid-19" (2020), and "Towards an Avant-Garde Europe: Current Status and Future Perspectives" (2017).
He serves as Editor-in-Chief of the Journal of Liberty and International Affairs (Scopus-indexed) and is a member of the European Association of Science Editors (EASE). He is also a co-founder and member of the Macedonian Association for Scientific Communication (MASC).

Danuta Kabat-Rudnicka, Ph.D., is a lawyer, political scientist, and professor at the Krakow University of Economics. Her research focuses on federalism, constitutionalism, constitutional and international courts, international organisations, European and international law, international relations theory, political systems, ethics in international relations, and international security. She is the author of two monographs: Zasada federalna a integracja ponadnarodowa. Unia Europejska między federalizmem dualistycznym a kooperatywnym (Kraków, 2010) and Konstytucjonalizacja Unii Europejskiej a sądownictwo konstytucyjne – wielopoziomowa współpraca czy rywalizacja? (Warszawa, 2016).

Mladen Karadjoski, Ph.D., is a full professor at the Faculty of Law, University "St. Kliment Ohridski" – Bitola. Throughout his academic career, he has participated in numerous academic conferences, seminars, forums, and workshops, and has authored or co-authored a substantial number of scholarly publications.

Milan Krstić, Ph.D., is an associate professor in the Department of International Studies at the Faculty of Political Science, University of Belgrade. His research focuses on stigmatisation processes in international society, the political and security dynamics of the Balkans, and U.S. foreign policy and politics. His most recent book is Stigma, Fear and Foreign Policy: Serbia's Destigmatization Dilemma in the Western Balkans (CEU Press, 2026). He was a Marshall Memorial Fellow of the German Marshall Fund and a Study of the U.S. Institutes (SUSI) Scholar at Bard College, New York. He has delivered guest lectures at The Ohio State University, Clemson University, the University of Cincinnati, and the University of Ljubljana.

Fatima Mahmutović, M.A., is a senior teaching assistant and Ph.D. candidate in the Department of Security and Peace Studies at the Faculty of Political Sciences, University of Sarajevo. She also serves as the department's secretary and coordinator of the doctoral programmes in Political Science and Security and Peace Studies. Her research interests include peace studies, conflict studies, peace education, and hybrid peacebuilding. She has participated in numerous national and international research projects, conferences, and academic initiatives related to peace and security studies. As a teaching assistant, she is involved in courses in peace studies, security studies, cybersecurity, geopolitics, and related fields. She is the author and co-author of several academic publications and conference papers in the fields of peace and security studies.

Tomasz Maślanka, Ph.D., is a professor at the Faculty of Sociology, University of Warsaw. He is the author, editor, and co-editor of several scholarly monographs and dozens of academic articles. His research focuses on the sociology and philosophy of culture, social theory, the intellectual history of Europe, and the history of ideas. His most recent major publications include the books Kontrkultura. Źródła i konsekwencje radykalizmu społeczno-kulturowego w perspektywie socjologii kultury (2017) and Doświadczanie świata. Eseje o myśli Romana Ingardena (2020).

Stevan Nedeljković, Ph.D., is an associate professor in the Department of International Studies at the Faculty of Political Science, University of Belgrade. His research focuses on international relations theory, the balance of power, transatlantic relations, and U.S. foreign policy. From 2022 to 2025, he served as Executive Editor of the Yearbook of the Faculty of Political Science. He is also a lecturer in the Clemson University Study Abroad Program, jointly organized by the Faculty of Political Science and Clemson University (South Carolina), and in the Studies of the Future programme organized by the Belgrade Open School. In 2018, he participated in the U.S. Department of State's International Visitor Leadership Program (IVLP). He is a regular commentator and analyst for leading media outlets in Serbia and the Western Balkans.

Vesna Poposka, Ph.D., is an associate professor of International Law and International Relations at the Military Academy "General Mihajlo Apostolski" in Skopje, North Macedonia. She is also an Associate Member of Goce Delčev University in Štip, North Macedonia.

Faton Shabani, Ph.D., is a professor at the Faculty of Law, University of Tetova, North Macedonia. He previously served as Vice-Rector for Finance, Investments and Development at the University of Tetova and is a Member of the Senate of the University. He has also been a member of the National Council for Higher Education and Research Activity (2021–2025), and since 2024 has served as a lecturer at the Academy for Judges and Public Prosecutors "Pavel Shatev" in Skopje. He is the author of seven university textbooks and the author or co-author of more than 100 peer-reviewed publications in academic journals and conference proceedings. He also serves on the editorial boards of numerous international scholarly journals and acts as a reviewer for academic publications. His research interests include Business Law, Contract Law, Intellectual Property Law, Consumer Protection, Competition Law, and International Business Law. He has delivered lectures and served as a visiting professor at universities across Europe and North America.

Mehmedin Tahirović, Ph.D., is a retired colonel of the Armed Forces of Montenegro and a professor of Humanistic Studies at the University of Donja Gorica in Podgorica. He previously served as Montenegro's National Military Representative to SHAPE (Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers Europe) at NATO Headquarters in Mons, Belgium. He graduated from the Military Academy of the Ground Forces in Belgrade and later earned a master's degree in law from the Faculty of Law in Podgorica, followed by a doctorate from the Faculty of Philosophy at the University of Mostar. His academic and professional interests focus on security, defence policy, crisis management, regional security, and Euro-Atlantic integration. Throughout his career, he has held teaching, research, and leadership positions at military, police, and higher-education institutions in Montenegro and Serbia. He served as a member of the Government of Montenegro's NATO Communication Team from 2008 to 2017 and was the author of the Communication Strategy on Montenegro's Euro-Atlantic Integration. He has published three books and numerous scholarly articles in the fields of defence and security studies. He is also the founder and President of the Marshall Center Alumni Association of Montenegro.

Ivana Tucak, Ph.D., is a full professor at the Faculty of Law, University of Osijek, Croatia, specialising in legal theory and the theory of the state. She serves as Head of the Department of International Law, Legal Theory and Methodology. Her research focuses on theories of rights, constitutional rights, bioethics, human rights, and public health law. She is President of the Scientific Council of the Croatian Academy of Legal Sciences and a member of the Executive Board of the International Association for the Philosophy of Law and Social Philosophy (IVR). Dr. Tucak is Editor-in-Chief of Pravni vjesnik. She leads the NRRP Institutional Research Project, Contemporary Challenges in Human Rights Protection – HRights (2025–2029), and participates in the Jean Monnet Module European Union and Gender Equality – EUGEquality (2023–2026).

Biljana Vankovska, Ph.D., is a retired full professor of Political Science, International Relations, and Peace Studies at the Faculty of Philosophy, Ss. Cyril and Methodius University in Skopje, North Macedonia. She is a Board Member of the Transnational Foundation for Peace and Future Research (TFF) in Lund, Sweden. Since the mid-1990s, she has contributed to the development of peace and conflict studies in the Balkans and founded the Global Changes Center, a research unit within the Faculty of Philosophy. She has held a number of prominent research and teaching positions, including Guest Senior Research Fellow at the Copenhagen Peace Research Institute (COPRI), faculty member at the European Peace University (EPU) in Stadtschlaining, Austria, and Senior Fellow at the Geneva Centre for the Democratic Control of Armed Forces (DCAF). She is also a member of the Global Governance Forum convened by Richard Falk. She has authored numerous scholarly articles and several university textbooks, including Transitional Justice (2021), Political System (2014), Institutions of the EU (2010), and International Security (2011). She served three terms as Editor-in-Chief of the scholarly journal Security Dialogues and is a member of several editorial boards, including the Journal of Balkan and Near Eastern Studies and the Journal of International Relations and Development.

Jacek Wojnicki, Ph.D., is a political scientist and constitutional scholar, and a Professor of Social Sciences affiliated with the Faculty of Political Science and International Studies at the University of Warsaw. He serves as Head of the Department of Political Systems. His research interests include the formation and functioning of political systems in European countries, as well as public administration and local government. Dr. Wojnicki is the author of numerous works on political and administrative systems and has professional experience in public administration.