

Biographical Notes

Jeronim Dorotić – Dr Dorotić currently holds a postdoctoral position within the Department of Sociology at the Catholic University of Croatia. He received a PhD in European Studies in 2019 at the J.J. Strossmayer University of Osijek (and also holds a BSc in Hospitality and Service Management from the Rochester Institute of Technology Croatia; is a university specialist in European Studies at the Faculty of Political Sciences at the University of Zagreb; and also holds an MA on Analyzing Europe (European Studies) from the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences, University of Maastricht). His research interests include EU public policies (e.g., the EU’s cultural, landscape, and island policies), and European identity, local cultural policies, well-being, and sustainable development.

Sylwia K. Mazur – Dr Mazur is a researcher at the Research Center for the Future of Law at the Catholic University of Portugal. She holds a Ph.D. in European Union Law. She also holds a Master of Law in International Law and B.S. in Journalism and Social Communication. She has graduated from different programs, including: International Business & Trade Summer Law Program at the Catholic University of America; “Europe in the World” Global Governance Training at the European University Institute, the Odysseus Network Summer School, and is a European Academy of Diplomacy Kościuszko Foundation’s scholarship recipient (University of Michigan).

Filip Tereszkiwicz – Ph.D., is an Assistant Professor at the Institute of Political Science and Administration at University of Opole. His research interests are the European Union’s foreign and security policy.

Adam A. Ambroziak – Ph.D. (dr hab), SGH Professor at the SGH Warsaw School of Economics specialising in the EU internal market policy, state aid policy, cohesion policy, common commercial policy, industrial policy, and in using EU funds. Dr Ambroziak is an expert in the decision-making process in the European Union and in EU lobbying; Head of Postgraduate Programme in State Aid, Head of Postgraduate Programme in Administration and Management, and is the author of over 150 scientific books, chapters, and science journals published by prominent international publishers, including Springer, Routledge, Taylor&Francis Group, and has written analyses drafted for the Polish administration and international organisations on the EU economic policy, state aid policy, and on the EU's internal market. He is actively involved in Poland's EU association, accession and membership; a lecturer and trainer in European economic integration and in European lobbying, and is also actively involved in accession negotiations and in the adjustment of the Polish legal system and economy to the provisions of the Europe Agreement. He lectures at the Warsaw School of Economics, the Centre for Europe at the University of Warsaw, the University of Gdańsk, the National School of Public Administration in Poland, and at the Polish Institute of International Affairs and is also a visiting researcher and professor at the University of Glasgow and University of Economics in Bratislava. For more, see: www.adamambroziak.eu.

Jakub Kociubiński – LL.M, PhD, DSc, University Professor at the Faculty of Law, Administration and Economics, University of Wrocław. His research interest focuses on the European Union competition law with a particular emphasis on State aid rules and transport regulations as well as the Belt and Road Initiative. He is the recipient of numerous research grants, and most recently he became the principal researcher in a project titled “Adaptation of the European Union Law of State aid to the Long Term Economic Consequences of the COVID-19 Pandemic” (OPUS-22) funded by the National Science Centre (2022–2024). He has also received multiple international recognitions, most recently in the I-CEE Global Forum Internationalization of Companies from Emerging Economies held on 28.08.2022 in Beijing for a paper (co-authored with Gavin Rae from Koźmiński University) titled “The Operational and Regulatory Challenges of Routing Freight by Rail from China to the European Union in the Light of Recent Developments. The Case of the Łódź Rail Logistics Hub in Poland”.

Aleksandra Borowicz – Assistant Professor at the Department of International Economy and Economic Development at the Faculty of Economics at the University of Gdansk. She specialises in international economics, with a focus on international trade, foreign direct investment, and the economics of European integration. Dr Borowicz has experience in both applying for and implementing projects co-financed by the European Union, and is a member of the Team Europe network at the European Commission in Poland. She is president of the PECSA (Polish European Community Studies Association), and also holds a position at the editorial boards of two journals Review of European Affairs published by PECSA and European Integration Studies published by Kaunas University of Technology.

Joanna Czerepko – Assistant Professor at the Department of Transportation Market at the Faculty of Economics at the University of Gdansk. Dr Czerepko has business experience in that she was previously a specialist in the consulting sector involved in EU projects. She specialises in economics, with an emphasis on consumption habits and sustainability.

Liga Brikena – Ph.D. candidate and researcher at Riga Stradins University, and actively participates in Jean Monnet Modules and Horizon Europe research project implementation. She received her MBA in finance from Riga Business School, along with an academic and professional Master's degrees in Law. Parallel to her academic activities, she acts as a strategic investor in private business projects.

Tomasz Grodzicki – Assistant Professor at the Department of Economic Policy and Regional Studies, Faculty of Economic Sciences and Management, Nicolaus Copernicus University in Toruń. He holds a Ph.D. in Economics and Finance. His primary scientific interests include regional economics, innovation, environmental, and EU economic policies.

Stanisław Lipiec – lawyer, legal sociologist, and political scientist. His research interests include the European Union, the EU law enforcement and EU law in action; human rights and the judiciary; and the methodology and philosophy of law. Doctoral thesis on the cross-border provision of legal services in the European Union. In addition, expert of the European Commission and of governmental and non-governmental institutions; permanent court mediator.

Zane Šime – an Affiliated Researcher at the Norwegian University of Science and Technology (NTNU) focusing on the European Union's (EU) science diplomacy towards the Southern Neighbourhood.